

Building a better
working world

How to drive maximum value from large-scale transformations and programs?

EY Transformation Hub (T-Hub)

The better the question. The better the answer. The better the world works.

Today's businesses are scaling the mountain of large-scale transformations, confronting numerous challenges on their ascent to successfully transition. These obstacles include the distillation of high-level strategies into explicit, actionable objectives, the simplification of execution across different organizational departments, and the need for prompt decision-making backed by top-notch insights, with a goal of steadily overcoming these challenges to reach new heights.

EY Transformation Hub (T-Hub)

EY Transformation Hub is designed to address these challenges by providing a centralized platform that helps organizations realize the utmost value of transformations by linking strategy to execution, thereby fueling growth.

Realize the value of transformations and large programs with our centralized platform

EY Transformation Hub is a centralized platform to help organizations realize the utmost value of transformations and large programs.

By translating strategy into clear goals, streamlining cross-organizational execution and helping enable high-quality insights for timely decision making.

It supports transformation journeys by digitally linking strategy to execution, KPIs, and outcomes. T-Hub is designed to configure governance processes and controls, set goals, objectives, and quantifiable transformation benefits, and communicate these goals across the organization.
